It had an effect to accelerate the precipitation in radioimmunoassay of steroid hormone labelled with 3 H. Further refinements of current methods, as well as the emergence of new immunoassay techniques, are expected to enhance precision, specificity, reliability, and convenience of the radioimmunoassay in both clinical and research laboratories. Within the European research project VERT VEHICLE ROAD TYRE INTERACTION a big number of friction measurements were carried out to define the main influencing parameters of the tyre-road-friction-process.
